"Interactive and creative learning of adults: exchange of good practices" is Erasmus+ strategic partnership project (2019-2021) which aims to share good practice examples in interactive and creative learning of adults. Coordinator of the project is KAI NGO from Lithuania.

The objectives are:

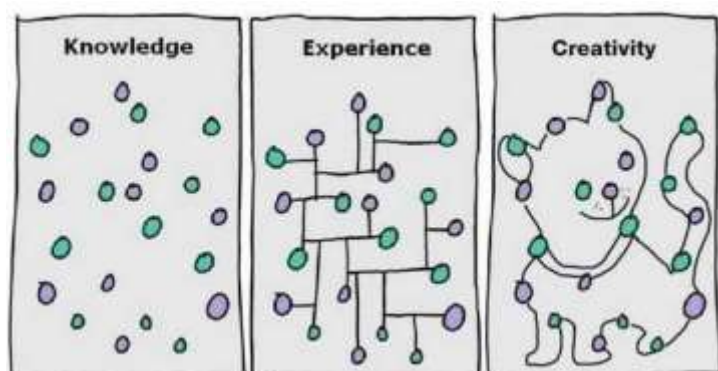

- * to share good practices among project partners,
- * to increase professional development of adult educators,
- * to collect and develop methods for the project E-Book,
- * to develop and reinforce EU networks for adult teaching and learning,
- * to enrich the network of adult education providers in partners' countries and Europe.

Project activities include:

- organisation of three transnational meetings and regular local activities;
- preparation and implementation of two short-term joint staff training events;
- collection of teaching materials in "Creativity training methodology";
- monitoring and evaluation process;
- dissemination of project results. Impact on the participants will be seen on improvement of knowledge of educators about creativity training methods.

Target groups:

- * adult educators (including not professionals, working in non-formal education settings, adult education centers, schools for adults, 3rd age universities, social centers, associations, voluntary organisations, adult educators-freelancers);
- * learners from different disadvantaged groups.

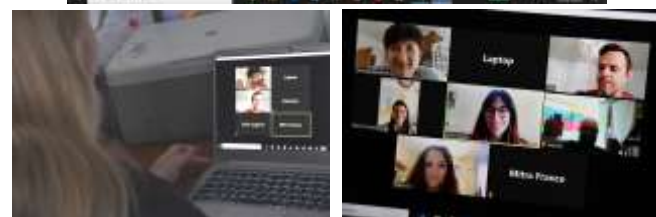

The project contributes to increasing creativity competencies. After participating in the local training, participants will have possibility to explore and find their hidden talents.

Learners with fewer opportunities, particularly unemployed, national minorities, migrants will be actively involved to the project activities, bringing their experience and competencies into the project.

Learning and training activities will give the added value for achievement of the project objectives.

More than 100 participants will be involved in this project and 50 of them with fewer opportunities.

The main project approach is targeted through non-formal learning methods which aim at enhancing the creativity skills and competences of adult educators and final beneficiaries - adult learners.

Impact on the participants will be seen on improvement of knowledge of educators about creativity training methods. Adult educators will have opportunity to learn about new methodology which they can later use with adult learners. Partners will increase EU project management competencies. They will tighten their cooperation, exchange of good practices and experiences.
